The official language of Iran is Persian. As all schools throughout the country use the Persian language, everybody in Iran can speak Persian fluently. It is said that the exact number of people who cannot read, write, and speak Persian is not clear. Only 3.6% to 14% of people in cities have problems to communicate in Persian. They are in the over 50 years old age group. In big cities, the percentage is even lower.

Beside the official language of Iran, Persian, there are 5 other languages that are spoken throughout the country. The first one is Turkish. This language is commonly spoken in the northwest provinces of Iran. Turkish itself has many dialects (spoken forms) in Iran. As many Turkish speakers have migrated to Tehran, it's not strange to hear people talking Turkish in Tehran. The second one is Kurdish. It is a kind of Indo-European language which is spoken in the west of Iran, Syria, Turkey, Armanestan and Turkmenistan. The Third one is Baluchi. This language is spoken in southeast Iran, Sistan and Baluchestan province. It has its own various dialects too. The fourth one is Armanian, a kind of Indo-European language, which is spoken in Armenia. Christians in Iran speak this language. The last one is Arabic. It entered Iran 1400 years ago with Islam. It is also the main language in the south along the Persian Gulf.
